With the American Army on the Aisne-Marne front, the French, the British and the Americans are still hammering the flank of the Crown Prince's army. The Germans are known to have brought up fresh divi-report the situation as favorable.

More favorable weather conditions brought out hosts of air craft this morning. The day was an excellent one for observation, and this is expected to change the character of the fighting somewhat, especially with regard to the artillery.

Paris, July 21.—There was great activity by the artillery during the night along the front between the Aisne and the Marne and northeast of Rheims.

pursuit of the retreating enemy south of the River Oise is reported in Gen.

London, July 21.—Raids were carried out by British troops last night in the region south of Boulogne and northwest of Albert says today's war

HAS TWO SONS NOW IN SERVICE

Concord, July 24.—Paul Dreischneider of Wolfboro, employed as a chef at a camp in Winnepesaukee, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Harris P. Hodgman Tuesday charged with sedition. It is alleged that he made statements to the effect that the sinking of the Lusitania by a U-boat was justifiable and that he defended the Kaiser saying that he was not to blame for having baby's hands cut off.

After hearing the evidence, Commissioner Hodgman ordered him to be held in $1,500 bail for the September grand jury. Bail was furnished by his employer, P. J. Anderson, a former professional golf player.

The chief witness against the respondent was Philip Irish, formerly a newspaperman and now a confederate at Wolfboro, Irish, who is of a diminutive build and crippled, caused a little excitement when he agreed that he ought not to have reported Dreischneider but should have given him a swift punch on the nose and have let it go at that.

Dreischneider was represented by William J. Dutton a member of the Public Safety Committee of Wolfboro, District Attorney Fred Robinson prosecuted the case.

Dreischneider has two sons in the service.

ALL CONTAGIOUS DISEASES TO BE REPORTED.

At a meeting of the State Board of Health at Concord July 23, the following diseases were declared notifiable:

Actinomycosis, acute infectious conjunctivitis, anthrax, chancreoid, chancroid, Asiatic cholera, continued fever lasting seven days, dengue, diphtheria, diphtheria and bacillary dysentery, typhus, German measles, glanders, gonorrhea, infectious mononucleosis, leprosy, malaria, measles, epidemic cerebrospinal meningitis, mumps, paratyphoid fever, plague, acute lobular pneumonia, acute infectious pharyngitis, rabies, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, (tick fever), scarlet fever, septicaemia, smallpox, syphilis, tetanus, trachoma, trichinosis, tuberculosis, at forma, typhoid fever, whooping cough, yellow fever.

Regulations governing the reporting of these diseases were presented to the board by Passed Assistant Surgeon C. E. Walker, in charge of the Division of Communicable Diseases of the Portsmouth-Kittery Civil Sanitary District. These regulations were referred to a special committee for study and will be acted upon at the next meeting of the board.

The adoption and enforcement of these regulations at this time is opportune because it will permit effective control over contagious diseases. Unless these diseases are promptly reported to the local health department the health officer cannot take the necessary steps to prevent further spread in the community.

These regulations will further deal with the procedures necessary when in case of communicable disease occurs and will determine the measures required in the matter of isolation, quarantine or fumigation. This will do away with any hit or miss judgment in controlling these diseases.

The list printed above will apply to the whole state and the City board of health will be requested to adopt the list and the necessary regulations. This will put Portsmouth on the map in the matter of reporting and controlling communicable diseases and it will then be clearly up to the physicians, householders and in fact every citizen in the city to do their part in the control of these diseases.

A SPRING MEETING

By HILDA MORRIS.

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

It was Saturday afternoon, a warm spring Saturday. Most of the other girls from Sally's office were planning gala excursions of some sort, shopping for new summer clothes, rowing in the park or going to the movies with John or Gerald. Some of them, carefully powdered and with their hair arranged modestly to conceal the ears, stepped out to meet young men at the doorway, tall young men in khaki, short young men in spring suits, jacks in tight-fitting blue. Only Sally set forth alone and with nothing planned for the afternoon's enjoyment.

It had been so different the week before! Then she, too, had met her soldier; she, too, had looked forward to a happy afternoon. And then some one had told her about him. It seemed that he wasn't just plain John Strong. He was the John Strong, son of the millionaire whose gray stone palace crowned the top of one of the city's beautiful hills. He had once been reported engaged to Evelyn Curcy, the banker's daughter, and rumor had it that even now he was courting the daughter of the governor of the state. What use could he have for plain, poor little Sally Graham? If he thought she was that kind of girl! So Sally concluded that she would simply have to put him out of her mind and resolve never to see him again.

This, however, was easier said than done. He had not called her up that Saturday, so there had been no occasion for putting her resolve into icy tones. One couldn't think over on a busy street, so she boarded a street car and rode to the edge of town, to strike off briskly down a country road.

Country roads in springtime are more delectable than the most gorgeous of stage scenery or the most bewitching of shops. There is something about a springtime road that seems to declare that it is a setting for happiness, for youth, for hope and health and radiance.

"It's funny so few people are out here on a day like this!" she said to herself. "I should think every one would be, and especially people with cars. I haven't met a soul."

But as she spoke there was the sound of a motor in the distance, and Sally stepped aside to wait until it had passed. It was a big gray car, and in it there was a girl alone. Sally looked at her a little wistfully. She was a pretty, well-dressed girl. Her bright eyes met Sally's with something like a friendly smile as she swept by, leaving a faint trail of dust.

"I suppose the governor's daughter looks like that," Sally thought. The afternoon went all too swiftly. Sally walked and walked, following the lure of the winding road that always had some surprise waiting for her around the very next turn. But at last it was time to start back, and she found that she was unexpectedly very tired. She had come farther than she thought.

And then, once more there came the sound of a motor. It was the big gray car with the pretty girl in it again. It came on smoothly and swiftly.

"Aren't you going back to town?" the girl called to Sally. "Don't you want to ride?"

Almost before she knew it Sally was seated beside her, spinning swiftly over the road that she had walked. They chatted amiably, of the weather, outdoor sports, the pleasures of walking. The strange girl was amazingly friendly. Sally felt a little shy at first, but no shyness could refrain from melting before the frank simplicity of the other's manner. She was utterly charming, with the sort of frank, sincere manner that reminded Sally so much of John Strong. Of course the girl belonged to his kind of people. No wonder he should love a girl like that! The wonder was that he had ever seen anything attractive about Sally, in her plain little suit with her shy, unselfish manner. At least so Sally thought.

Suddenly the big car slowed down at a curb.

"There's my brother," said its owner. "He's waving me to stop. No, don't get out, please. I'll drive you on down as far as the square; there's plenty of room."

Sally sat still with her heart beating swiftly. He was coming through the crowd, his tall khaki figure conspicuous among all the others. He came straight toward them and got in—beside Sally.

"Why, Sally Graham!" he exclaimed. "I've been looking for you all the afternoon! I didn't know you knew my sister. You've been telling her all about you, but—"

"And I didn't know this was Sally Graham," the sister broke in smiling. "I've been dying to meet you, Miss Graham, and I'm glad you did it in this way. I'm sure it couldn't have happened more pleasantly. John has told me so much about you—"

"I wonder," broke in John Strong, "whether you would drive us around to the house, Edith? That is if Sally wouldn't mind coming. I want mother to meet Sally, because—because—"

His hand beneath the lap-robe tightened on Sally's.

Sally felt her voice to be a little husky, but she smiled as she answered:

"I shouldn't mind in the least," she said.

SUBMARINE SINKS SCHOONER OFF CAPE PORPOISE

Kennebunkport, Me., July 23.—German submarines have struck again off the New England coast. This time an undersea raider sank with a bomb the schooner Robert and Richard, near Cape Porpoise, 65 miles east-southeast of Cape Cod, at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning. This was approximately 120 miles north of the spot where a U-boat sank four barges off Orleans, Cape Cod, Sunday morning, and the time was almost twenty-four hours later to the minute than the opening of the Cape Cod foray.

The first shot from the Robert and Richard, containing three men, landed at this point at 7 o'clock tonight. The men reported the others not far behind and motorboats were sent out to search for them.

The first dorymen to land said the submarine emerged from their port side at 10 o'clock Monday morning and fired a warning shot across their bows. The man at the wheel promptly threw the schooner up into the wind to bring her to leeward from the submarine. Then, he reported, the submarine took the ship's papers, and after the crew of 22 men had gotten into their dories, placed a bomb. At 10:30 o'clock a sharp explosion sent the ship into the bottom.

There were no other ships in sight at the time. The last the fishermen saw of the submarine was a dark shape resting on the surface with her main pointed north.

The sinking of the fishermen did not take half an hour. As soon as the little vessel had become motionless on the smooth seas, the submarine sent aboard a small boat in command of her second officer. This man, who said he had lived for years in the United States and had had a summer home in Maine since 1896, asked for the schooner's papers, took the ship's flag and ordered all the men to their dories. As they were still piling over the side he placed the bomb and rowed back to the submarine which made off at a safe distance to await the explosion.

The weather was very calm and fortunately remained so for the more than thirty hours the men were adrift. All the dories were equipped with small sails as well as oars and, taking advantage of the light puffs of the southerly winds, the little fleet headed for the Maine coast.

The first boat to land had two sails which enabled her to draw away from the rest of the fleet about noon today, when the breeze freshened a bit. In this boat also were a gallon of water and a fair supply of ship's biscuits. It was better stocked than the other dories and while the little fleet remained together biscuits and water were doled out in small quantities to all hands in equal amounts. While all the men were thoroughly tired out with long spells at the oars and were hungry and thirsty there had been no real privations. Up to midnight fourteen of the crew had been accounted for.

SKIPPER'S STORY WOULD INDICATE TWO RAIDERS HERE

Portland, July 23.—The coal steamer Suag Harbor arrived tonight with 11 men of the Gloucester fishing schooner Robert and Richard which was sunk off the southeastern coast of Maine Monday morning. She picked up two boatloads of men 25 miles off Portland Headship at 8 o'clock tonight. Among them was Capt. Robert Wharton of the schooner. He said the second officer of the submarine boarded the schooner, and told him he had lived in America for a number of years and had a summer home in Maine since 1896. Captain Wharton said three boatloads of his crew were still missing.

Captain Wharton, who was able to give the first connected story of the sea raider's exploit, said the submarine was not more than 250 feet long and carried two heavy guns. The estimate would indicate that there are at least two raiders off the New England coast. If the Cape Cod residents who witnessed the sinking of four coal barges off Orleans Sunday were correct in estimating the U-boat as 400 feet in length, the submarine off the Maine coast came down on the schooner from the north and was well outside the limits of either coastwise or trans-Atlantic shipping routes. When the Cape Cod raider was last seen she was headed south.

Captain Wharton's story is as follows:

"We had been fishing on the western bank and hauled in our lines Friday, heading at once for Boston. Shortly before noon Monday we saw the submarine coming up astern. We made her out first at least two miles distant. She was following a zig-zag course and after looking her over, we concluded she was an American patrol boat. We didn't pay much attention to her after that until she had been working up to within a mile or so of us, when she sent a shot over our bow. It came mighty near hitting us, but I don't believe the German meant to score a hit.

"It was just a broad hint to leave us and we followed it promptly. We weren't going to take any chances in case the German should start shelling and we tumbled into the dories, leaving six of them on deck.

"As soon as the German came up within hailing distance three men, the commander, first officer and a seaman, came on deck and the second officer ordered us to send a boat alongside. I went over with my boat and in obedience to orders rowed the three Germans to the schooner and boarded her with them.

"Both officers spoke good English but had little to say. I couldn't get them to say how many ships they had sunk, where they had come from, how long they had been out, or where they were going to or why they should pick out my boat. They only talked of the business in hand and that mightily briefly.

"The second officer, however, loosened up a bit. He went down into the cabin to get the ship's papers and the American flag I kept there."

BOAT HIGH-LINER OF GLOUCESTER FLEET

Gloucester, July 23.—The schooner Robert and Richard, which was sunk off the southeastern coast of Maine Monday morning, was the high-liner of the Gloucester fleet. She was in command of Capt. "Bob" Wharton, who has long ranked as one of the most successful Gloucester fishermen and this year he was having his best season. Since Jan. 1, the Robert and Richard had earned between $60,000 and $70,000. Vessel and cargo were valued at $35,000. She was built four years ago and was owned by the John Chisholm Corporation of this city. She had been out two weeks after halibut and had a crew of 22 men.

EXETER

Exeter, July 21.—Dr. A. W. Mitchell of Exeter, assisted by Dr. Walter A. Tuttle of Exeter, continued the examination of registrants of June 6 at the Rockingham county building today. Many were put through the tests. Among the number were two with only one arm apiece and another had his knee injured so that his leg was stiff. Several were rejected owing to physical reasons.

Municipal court was again in session Tuesday when Edward Cawthie, giving his address as Farmington was brought before the court charged with being intoxicated. He was arrested by officers C. J. Mitchell and John Howe, who found him curled up on the sidewalk near the Boston and Maine station. No fine was imposed on him and he was allowed to go back to Farmington where he stated he had steady employment.

The last session of probate court till September was held Tuesday morning before Judge Louis C. Hoyt.

Mrs. Sarah H. Lawrence and daughter of Boston, former Exeter residents are guests at the Squamscott house.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip C. Blanchard of Newport, Vt. are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Sargent of Gill street. Mr. Blanchard is a former academy student having been here in 1913 and 1914.

Col. John D. Hall and wife are guests at the Graduate's house. Colonel Hall is a retired army officer and makes a visit to Exeter annually. He is a graduate from the academy with class of 1889 and served as a surgeon in the Philippines.

ALLIES DRAWING NET TIGHTER ABOUT GERMANS

(By Associated Press)

The Entente allies (except on the Solomons and Rethelg salient continue to gain ground on the western front and on the south along the Marne, not withstanding the enemies greatly stiffened resistance with picked. While the late gains are not so great as have been made, of considerable value to the allied line from a military standpoint.

In the fighting many prisoners and much war supplies and a number of guns have been taken by the Americans, French and the British.

As a diversion the French delivered an attack between Solomons and Ales and have struck the German line on a four mile front and have effected a penetration of more than a mile, and have gained the heights that dominate the Aves valley. They have captured 1500 prisoners. The official French communication refers to this attack as a local engagement.

South of Solomons in the direction of Perre-en-Tardanois the French have pushed the Germans over the Our river. South of the river the allies reached the railroad to Amantiers and coining running south of Chateau-Thierry.

The advance brings the Americans and French seven miles from Perre-en-Tardanois, and gives them a place-ment for their big guns that will nu-

ARMY MAKES RECORD MEAT PURCHASE

Chicago, July 23.—The largest single order for bacon and cured meats in the history of the world—99,500,000 pounds of bacon and 134,000,000 pounds of cured meat—has just been placed by the Quartermaster's Department, U. S. A., for the American Army overseas.

Louis F. Swift, in commenting on this today, said the order will take the bacon from approximately 1,500,000 hogs and if other work were dropped to produce it would be equivalent to the total bacon production of the five largest Chicago packers for nearly five weeks, however, six months will elapse before delivery is to be completed.

Mr. Swift said:

"At the current prices on the day, last week, when the purchase was made, the packers would pay the live stock producers about $30,000,000, for the necessary hogs and over $50,000,000, for about 200,000 cattle required.

"The cattle will cost us twice as much, and the hogs two and one-half times as much as in the pre-war period.

"The whole order will be made up before the first of the year, despite the fact that, even before this purchase, one-fourth of the packers' facilities have been devoted to filling military demands.

"In order to get out the canned goods the packers will find it necessary to employ night and day shifts of canners. Notwithstanding the fact that the products are being rushed forward thus hurriedly, not a single complaint has been received on meats delivered to the armies abroad.

"The five packers are now killing about 360,000 hogs weekly to keep abreast of martial and domestic needs."

NEW PLANNING FOR 5,000,000 TROOPS

Washington, July 23.—It appears that with not much more than quarter of a million United States troops in the actual fighting line in France, it has been enough to already turn the defense into an offensive and to start the march which will only end in the defeat of the enemy.

Officials admit that plans are being made to greatly enlarge the army plant and to facilitate the continuous advance of troops into the western front.

It is now settled that before the Americans will have at least two mil-

BASE BALL DECISION TO BE GIVEN TODAY

(By Associated Press)

Washington, July 23.—Final decision as to when the "work or fight" rule will be applied to the professional baseball, has been put over until tomorrow. The representatives of the big leagues had a conference today with Provost Marshal General Crowder. The War Department is studying the regulations with a view to making it include all professional entertainers. If this is done it will effect the moving picture men as well as the actors of the stage.

Some of our local people are replying letters from some of the men who were on the U. S. S. San Diego at the time of the sinking. All state that the crew of the ship acted with marked bravery and sang heartily under the adverse conditions.

Owing to prevailing conditions I am forced to do a strictly cash business on and after August 1st 1918.

Splendid Work of American Soldiers.

It is not strange that a nation trained to war as Germany has been should have believed it impossible for the United States to put an effective army in the field in the space of time in which this has been done. But the American step is quick and when Americans set out to do a thing it does not take them forever to do it.

From the time the United States entered the war Germany has been incredulous of its ability to accomplish anything of consequence by this time, but it is now learning its mistake, not only as to the quality of America's fighting men, but of America's ability to place them on the firing line notwithstanding the distance to be traveled and the menace of undersea warfare, which the Germans vainly imagined would safeguard them against serious interference from the United States. The German idea of American soldiers was recently expressed in a German paper as follows: "These American soldiers are cannon fodder. They are incapable of standing up to our seasoned veterans. America has been powerless to train the forcibly enlisted men she has shipped to Europe."

The probability is that this statement was honestly believed by the paper that made it. To a nation trained in the arts of war as Germany has been such an achievement as that of the United States in a little more than one year must be incomprehensible. But the achievement is now speaking for itself and the eyes of Germany must be beginning to open.

For many days past the American soldiers on the western front have most gallantly demonstrated that they are something more than cannon fodder. They have been fighting like seasoned veterans, their work winning the highest praise of the French and British commanders and the war critics. They have shown unsurpassed courage and endurance and have done their full share of the hard and effective work that has been done since the beginning of the latest Teutonic drive. Very far indeed from "negligible" are the American forces in France.

To the people of this country all this is not surprising. Anything else would have been. Americans know what kind of stuff their soldiers and sailors are made of, and that when there comes a call to action they are ready for the call.

Americans are a peaceable race, but when it is necessary to fight they know how and are not afraid. This has been so from the beginning. They never fight unless there is something worth fighting for, but when the occasion arises they are ready for it, as they always have been from the days of the Revolution.

There is cause for pride in what American soldiers are doing today on French soil. They are honoring the ancestry from which they spring, upholding the best traditions of the country they represent and valiantly assisting in the performance of a work which will ultimately make human freedom as wide as the world.

Any city as prosperous as Portsmouth is bound to attract crooks, and so it is not to be wondered at that burglars and shoplifters are heading this way. This means that the police and all others need to be especially watchful if the plunderers are to be prevented from carrying out their nefarious work and that severe penalties must be imposed in cases of detection and conviction.

Drownings and narrow escapes are being reported from the coast resorts, where the greatest care is necessary on the part of their frequenters and those in charge of the bathing waters. Fatalities at such places are poor advertising, and all interested should strive to keep the number of drownings to the minimum.

In Springfield, Mass., the other night a small fire was discovered in a saloon and a patrolman and a fireman put it out with a three-gallon jug of whiskey, which did the work perfectly. And that is the kind of whiskey that sells at from 20 to 25 cents a glass in Springfield.

German and Austrian papers tell the truth once in a while, as did the Socialist Arbeiter Zeitung of Vienna the other day when it said that "American participation in the fighting increases the German task to one of gigantic magnitude." It certainly does.

Congratulations to Dover, which is to have a good park and a number of public swimming pools. Such things are worth much to any community and Dover will be a better place in which to live when these improvements have been completed.

A contemporary states that this country has no national flower, but it is mistaken. America has the finest national flower in the world and a magnificent specimen of it now in evidence on the western front.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Those Nails Will Be Needed

(From New Haven Journal-Courant)
 Whether dead or alive Hindenburg does not seem to be as high in the estimation of his war lord as he was. His wooden statue will go next.

The Principal Issue

(From the Albany Journal)
 Hammer crops of grain are in sight. What's the prospect as to the price of wheat?

Too Dangerous

(From the Toronto Mail and Empire)
 It is easy to calculate what the Kaiser thinks of the job of Sultan of Turkey from the fact that he did not appoint one of his sons to the vacancy.

Work For Women

(From the Hartford Courant)
 It is announced that the great Pennsylvania road hire 1481 women during June and at the end of the month had $207 in its service. This means wages for women who likely had not the opportunity for employment before and also a chance for the displaced men to do something for their country. It is true.

Hung Kill Their Own Men

(From the Washington Star)
 A new form of German war madness has developed. On the night of July 15-16 five Hun aviators for one hour dropped bombs on a prison camp near Troyes, thirty miles behind the French front, and killed ninety-four German soldier captives and wounded seventy-four others. The only French casualties were two wounded. It is inconceivable that the character of the camp was not known, for these incursions are distinct in aspect. Yet why such a slaughter of their own people? The prisoners must already have yielded all the information they were willing to give to their captors. Is it a case of the fabled snake biting itself to death?

Maine Labor

(From the Brockton Times)
 Organized labor of Maine has gone on record in favor of carrying this war to a successful, victorious conclusion. In a resolution adopted in convention, the State Federation of Labor endorsed the League to Enforce Peace and asserted a determination to assist the Administration in every way possible in bringing to bear every available lot of man power to aid the Government. This action was not forced. It was spontaneous and hitherto the leaders of organizations in Maine have made good their resolve. And this seems to be the uncontroverted position of conservative labor throughout the country. That there are influences at work to undermine the strong position taken by central bodies is apparent, but there is confidence that the sane minds will prevail in the end and that stable conditions may be resumed after the proper subjugation of malcontents and disturbers who seize upon the present emergency to create strife and disorder.

The Japanese Red Cross

(From the New York World)
 The visit of the Japanese Red Cross Commission has caused a most agreeable impression. As chairman Davidson said at the Union Club luncheon, this is the first purely humanitarian mission that has come to us, and that it comes from Japan emphasizes its significance and heightens the contrast between ideals of humanity in war as exemplified by the Oriental nation and by Christian Germany. Its visit will strengthen fraternal ties between Americans and Japanese.

No doubt many people have learned for the first time from this event of the existence of a Japanese Red Cross Society. Yet in fact Japan joined the Geneva Convention in 1886 and the society's members in 1910 numbered 1,532,201. It rendered efficient service in the war between Japan and China in 1894-95 and in the Boxer troubles of 1900. In 1909 the society had twelve hospitals and a medical corps of 3787 doctors, pharmacists and nurses.

After all, the principles of the Red Cross agree with those of the old Samurai code of bushido as respects generosity to a stranger. One good effect of the commission's visit will be to help still further in dispelling prejudices by showing the existence in the two nations of common ethical standards of humanity and mercy in war.

As To the Military Titles

(From the Berkshire Eagle)
 After the war the country will be full of colonels, majors, captains, lieutenants, etc., and the older men who attained those titles after years of monotonous service will be obscured. For example, Major Nicholson, who has seen nearly a dozen years of such service, will have to give way to the young soldiers of the hour, through no fault of his own. We always allude to Mr. Nicholson as Sheriff Nicholson without any thought of the fact that he has through a series of years, earned the title of major, and so far as need be, is still in active Government service. Indeed, the newspaper folks might pay graceful and deserved compliment to Major Nicholson by alluding to him in the press by his military title, namely, "Major Nicholson, sheriff of Berkshire County," which, by the way, is the manner in which the Hampshire County newspapers always allude to Sheriff Clarke, who, like our own sheriff, was in the State militia.

Aged Trees

(From the Hartford Courant)
 The Providence Journal says that a swampland at Bartlettville, R. I., is cutting half a million feet of white oak lumber for the wooden ships which are being built in New London County between Stonington and New London. It says further that the first branches on some of the trees are from forty to sixty feet from the ground and is of the opinion that some of them must be over 200 years old.

The estimate is conservative bearing in mind the slow growth of the white oak, for the trees may have been in Rhode Island before Roger Williams was and for that matter, before Adrien Black navigated in the adjacent waters. There may be found trees as venerable in this State but one may doubt if a single tract of white oak timber could be found large enough to furnish half a million feet of lumber.

The Journal deplors the fact that reforestation has not been practiced, but in planting white oaks the best intentions may weary and grow faint at the thought of the length of time which must elapse between the planting of the tree and its growth to the point where the first limb is forty feet from the ground. New England's conifers, and even its maples and elms may be planted if one has hope and a large family, but what have we that can watch over the growth of a white oak from its sapling stage to its maturity?

Germany's Doom Sounded

(From Philadelphia Public Ledger)
 Every American heart will thrill with pride at the news from France. In the first great test of their quality our boys have rung true. That hard-boiled veterans like the French should stand firm is not surprising. So far they have not yielded as they were forced to yield in the earlier drives. No vital point in the line has been broken. The Germans are no longer able to take their foes by surprise. But the Americans, coming fresh into the conflict, not only held their own as the most experienced troops might have done; they turned a defensive into an offensive and gave the Germans a sound drubbing. To take some fifteen hundred German prisoners, including a complete brigade staff was a great feat in itself. The boast-ers at Berlin now know that what they thought impossible has been achieved. They may continue to deride the Americans, but in their hearts they realize that their coming has turned the tide. The armies that were to fall the Allies at the critical moment, that were to be driven like leaves before the wind by the irresistible German onset, the raw levies that could not look disciplined troops in the face, have shown a mettle beyond all praise. The doom of Germany has been already sounded, and the rulers of Germany know it, if the people do not.

WHEN THEY COME BACK

By Alton Brown of The Vigilantes.
 They will come back, America's brave sons,
 From war torn fields, when victory
 And peace
 Have stilled the angry thunder of the guns,
 And brought to sufferings hearts a quick release,
 They will come back from anguish deep and stiff,
 From sights and sounds that only they could know,
 Back to the fulness of a richer life—
 The great reward because they chose to go.

They will have felt the flames of cleansing fires,
 Have passed the tests that try the hearts of men,
 Have learned in sacrifice of dear desires,
 That souls can rise to splendid heights again.
 They will have proved that wrong can hold no sway,
 Have seen the darkness change to radiant light,
 Have felt the presence, "Lo,—with you always!"
 And heard His voice in silences at night.

And we who wait and pray for them at home,
 May one great prayer in soul and spirit burn;
 That we may keep the faith until they come,
 Be not unworthy of a bright return—
 A prayer expressed in every deed and thought,
 In every task of willing heart and hand,
 A purpose out of pure desire wrought,
 To learn of them and some day understand.

POLICE SAY AUTOS PASSED THROUGH THIS CITY ON WAY TO MANCHESTER

The local police were called by telephone from Portland early this morning and notified of two stolen autos, a Hudson and Cadillac, in the Maine city. The call came a little late for the Portsmouth officers to act but they notified the Portland police that the autos they thought had gone through here on the way to Manchester, N. H.

GERMANS ARE SLOWLY STARVING SAYS HOOVER

London, July 23.—"The conquered people, already hungry, are being slowly but surely starved, and their loss of life through malnutrition and starvation during the period before the next harvest will be far larger than all the casualties on the western front." This statement was made here today by Herbert C. Hoover, United States food administrator.

"Taking a broad view," Mr. Hoover said, "one outstanding and dominating fact is perceived within the enemy lines, namely hunger. And, although a body of some 100,000 persons, comprising the dominating spirits in Germany, have been able to put against the rest of the world the forces of some 160,000,000 people, they have not been able to produce their needed food. 'I have in my possession the needs of the European allies for meats,' he went on, 'We can furnish this whole volume in pork alone. We can summarize our present position by stating that within the next 12 months we can, with less pressure of saving upon our people, export 18,000,000 tons, if necessary, and to this Canada will add 3,000,000 tons.'

After announcing that all anxiety had passed, Mr. Hoover continued: "We are all building ships as a part of our submarine defense. We have now built up our food reserves in the nearest market as a further defense. The call for ships for food next year will be less than last, and consequently we will have more ships for American soldiers."

NAVY YARD NOTES

Daniels Praises Reservists.
 Sec. Daniels of the Navy Department has sent the following order to Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood:
 "You will please convey to Herman- do H. Allen, chief machinist's mate, Harry Koppel, seaman, second class, and William H. Kane, seaman, second class, U. S. N. R. F., the department's hearty commendation for their gallantry in rescuing from drowning second assistant light keeper Austin Pease June 16, 1918.

"It appears from the report received in the department that Koppel and Kane noticed an overturned boat with a man clinging to it, and, fastening themselves together with a heaving line, waded out to one ledge and then swam to another which was partially under water and with a heavy surf breaking upon them, and from this point they managed to heave a line to Pease, who had just strength enough left to make it fast, and by this means he was dragged to the ledge.

"In the meantime help had been summoned and the U. S. S. Pauline, Scout Patrol 658, with Hernandez E. Allen, chief machinist's mate, in command, proceeded to the rescue. The condition of the water was such that the Pauline was unable to approach very near the ledge to which the men were clinging, and Chief Machinist's Mate Allen, taking the boat he had picked up, sculled to the rocks and brought all three men safely to the Pauline.
 "The department feels that the heroic action of these three men has well upheld the best traditions of the Naval service."

 Subject: Trophy captured by 3d platoon, 7th company.

I am sending to the Major General Commandant a heavy German machine gun captured at 5.15 a. m. June 11, 1918, in a successful attack on the woods of "Bois de Helleau" by the 3d platoon of the 6th company.
 Besides capturing over 100 prisoners, we captured and destroyed 23 German machine guns. We put 6 of the captured guns in my front line, and by excellent operation by my noncommissioned officers numbers of Germans fell victims of their own weapons.

This gun, if it ever reaches the commandant, has helped to strengthen my position wonderfully, and it, with five other light machine guns, were in excellent operation in my company sector for four days.

(Signed) Macon C. Overton,
 First Lieutenant, U. S. M. C.,
 Commanding.

ODD ITEMS FROM EVERYWHERE

Using a special furnace a London scientist has made glass tubes with an outside diameter of but one twenty-five thousandths of an inch.
 At Merrymeeting Bay, Me., from five books of black ducks were noticed in the beach beds. This would seem to indicate that already the flight birds have begun to return on their pilgrimage to the South. Capt. Crocker, who is lighterman on the Thistle II, says that he has seen a summer native-bred wild ducks in the bay this year. It is thought that the ducks probably have mistaken the cold summer of this year for autumn.
 The Mormon Church in Utah has just turned over to the Government its wheat reserve of 250,000 bushels, collected from tithe.

Rev. C. G. Miller of Oxford, Me., has put in since the Fourth 8-1-2 tons of good hay which had not a drop of water on it. This is due to the peculiar distribution of the showers which fell nearly almost every day while he was haying.

William Elder of Prophetstown, Ill., has just completed the sheep shearing in the County of Whiteside, Henry, Mercer, Stark, Bureau and Rock Island. He sheared 7830 sheep.

To have lost two husbands and married a third during the war has been the experience of Lady Michael Wardell, one of London's recent brides. She is a daughter of Sir Daniel Cooper, an Australian millionaire. She married first the late Viscount Northland, who lost his life in active service in 1915, and left a will in which he expressed the hope that his widow would marry again. She fulfilled his hope when she was married to Capt. Geoffrey Mills, who was killed a year ago. Her third husband is also a British officer.

There is one English town with 30,000 population which has utilized and extended natural caves in chalky formations, beneath the city, as dumps; during air raids. This city gets almost every raid on London twice, both going and coming. There are enough caves to hold every man, woman and child in the city. The caves have been provided with proper ventilation, drainage, and in some instances, where several families have clung together, private caves are maintained.

The record long-distance furniture moving was noted recently when a big van came from Philadelphia to Northeast Harbor, Me., with furniture of a summer resident. The run is more than 600 miles.

For the first time, so far as can be ascertained, Brunswick, Me., is represented at both West Point and at Annapolis, and it is thought that this this first time that the town has sent a boy to either institution. Harold Ernest Beach is at Annapolis, while Joseph Monroe Rousseau, Jr., is at West Point. Both boys graduated from the Brunswick High school in the class of 1917 and they live within 100 yards of each other.

The trappers and others employed by the Hudson Bay Company have noticed that where deep water was to be found heretofore it is becoming so shallow that navigation is accomplished with difficulty. Investigation has led to the discovery that the shores of the great body of water are gradually being tipped as if an effort was being made to empty its waters into an adjoining sea. The bay where Henry Hudson spent the winter of 1610 has entirely disappeared or has so changed that it cannot now be located, although there is sufficient data left by him to locate the bay under conditions as he found them.

One ardent Chicago disciple of Hoover was discovered recently canning potato peelings with the intention of feeding them to pigs next winter.

The most important minerals known to exist in the Arctic are coal and iron. The former abounds in incalculable quantities in situations where further explorations may make it of service, but meantime it is systematically worked only in the Barrow islands and Spitzbergen. The rapid exhaustion of iron deposits elsewhere is causing anxious eyes to be turned to those within the Arctic, and more than one expedition recent yearlings than one expedition recently sent out have had their exploration as a main object.

A large turtle was captured the other day by a Berkshire county woman who had it killed and then made turtle soup. As members of the family did not care for this high-class food, it was fed to a young pig.

AMERICANIZATION OF OUR CITIZENS

Concord, July 21.—The New Hampshire Federation of Labor at its annual meeting in Keene, took up the question of Americanization at the suggestion of individual delegates and unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"That this Federation and its officers will urge all its members to encourage all non-English-speaking people in New Hampshire to read, write and speak English; to influence so far as practicable every present member of our local unions who does not speak English to register at a night school; and to urge upon school and city authorities their support of the educational program suggested by the Americanization Committee of the State of New Hampshire."

The Federation further instructed its executive board to recommend rules that all future applicants for membership in affiliated local unions shall be encouraged to speak and read or write the English language understandingly. A vote was also passed to instruct the executive board to co-operate with the New Hampshire Americanization Committee.

President Richard J. Conroy of the Federation is preparing communications to all the local unions in the state calling their attention to the Americanization plan and the attitude of Union Labor in support of them. Local unions will be instructed to announce these plans and resolutions to all union labor men.

The resolutions adopted at the state labor convention explain the work of Americanization and the manner in which it is to be carried on in the following terms:

"The Federal Government has entrusted to the Bureau of Education a more thorough Americanization of our foreign-born people, and at the request of the Bureau of Education our New Hampshire Committee of Public Safety has created a Committee of Americanization to carry on this important work in New Hampshire.

"This committee is acting in close co-operation with the New Hampshire Department of Public Instruction in preparing plans to carry out the general proposals that were adopted at a meeting called by Secretary Lane and held in Washington April 2nd."

The purposes are recited in the labor resolutions at some length. They include the following four important purposes:

1.—That in all schools where elementary subjects are taught, they should be taught in the English language only.

2.—The adoption of a policy that the United States should co-operate with the states and through them with the local communities in carrying on an extensive, intensive and immediate program of Americanization, through education, especially for foreign-born, non-English-speaking adults.

3.—That the industries employing large numbers of non-English-speaking, foreign-born persons should co-operate with local communities and state and federal governments in carrying out this proposition.

4.—That adequate appropriations should be made by Congress for the foregoing purposes.

"That this Federation most heartily endorses the foregoing proposals," the resolutions said, "adopted at said Washington meeting and pledge our cordial support to the Committee of Americanization, and the public school officials in their efforts to carry out proposals into practical effect in New Hampshire."

The Americanization Committee has been much encouraged by the attitude assumed by the labor officials. Letters are being prepared for posting in all mills and factories which will contain a synopsis of the endorsement of the Federation of Labor over the signatures of its president and secretary.

Headquarters for Americanization work have been opened in the State House at Concord and much preliminary work is being carried on this summer. The evening schools and day schools for non-English-speaking adults will not open until fall, however. A census of all places where men are employed in numbers is being taken to determine the number involved in Americanization work and the number of schools that will be required to cover them.

DANIELS ASKS ABOUT BOMBS

Washington, July 21.—Secretary Daniels yesterday asked the commandant of the First Naval District for a report as to the reasons for the failure of bombs to explode after they were dropped by naval aviators, who Sunday attacked a German submarine off the Massachusetts coast. The naval officers twice circled over the submarine when it was shelling a tug and barge, but apparently none of the bombs they let loose exploded.

GOVERNOR AND COUNCIL MEET AT MR. VERRETTE'S—ACCEPT JUDGE ALLEN'S RESIGNATION.

Manchester, July 24.—The resignation of Judge John E. Allen of the superior court who has accepted a position on the priorities board at Washington, was accepted at the meeting of the governor and council today afternoon at Mayor Verrette's home, owing to the latter's inability to journey to Concord on account of illness. Judge Allen, whose term is in June, was a judge one year and was the youngest member of the court. The priorities board, with which he will be connected, regulates the shipping of war material.

Other business transacted at the meeting included the appointment of Burton Crankshaw of Nashua as chairman of the state committee on aids to dependents of soldiers and sailors, to succeed Montgomery Rollins, who died recently.

The sum of $10,000 was appropriated for state institutions, to make up for deficiencies caused by high prices. A report on the recent mill strike in this city, submitted by Labor Commissioner Davis, concluded the meeting. Governor Henry W. Keyes and members of his council left Concord by automobile and arrived at the home of the mayor late in the afternoon.

IRELAND SENDS MUCH FOOD TO ENGLAND

Dublin, July 23.—Ireland sends more food to Great Britain than is retained for home consumption, according to the Irish department of agriculture. Prior to the war Ireland sent more food to England than any other country except the United States. In 1917, the shipments from Ireland were valued at $25,000,000.

It is claimed by the department of agriculture that Ireland produces 30 per cent of the cattle and 30 per cent of the pigs of the United Kingdom.

ENFORCEMENT OF SUNDAY LAW

Nashua, July 23.—Counsel William G. Finn, for the small store keepers, in the renewal of the fight over alleged "discrimination" in the Sunday selling law is today preparing a letter to be sent to the Nashua police commission demanding that the Sunday law be enforced according to statutes and without "discrimination."

The letter will be sent to the clerk of the commission, Hon. Andrew B. Jones and is in line with the program as mapped out in Monday.

The letter includes a copy of the law and also the statement sent the counsel by Attorney General Oscar L. Young of New Hampshire regarding law of "discrimination."

The letter will demand that the commission enforce the law. Otherwise the petition will be filed by the counsel asking for a writ of mandamus to compel the police commission to have the state law enforced and close up everything Sundays, all day.

PAGEANT FOR ENLISTED MEN

Large Party Entertained by Methodist Society on Tuesday Evening.

The Methodist society entertained a large party of enlisted men Tuesday evening at the church vestry, the leading feature of the entertainment being a pageant in which many young people of the society took part.

The pageant was entitled "The Awakening of America" and was in general charge of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Smith and Miss Edith M. Paul.

It was in three parts, each part being represented by a series of tableaux. The first series were "The Spirit of Belgium," "The Spirit of the Lusitania," and "The God of War."

The second series was called "Everywhere in America" and represented the rush in registration, Red Cross work, knitting, canning and various kinds of war activities.

The last part of the pageant depicted "Somewhere in France" and showed American war activities there. Seven U. S. soldiers and sailors took part in the pageant. At its close a march was enjoyed, the allied countries being represented by young people in costume. This was led by Master Elbridge Smith, who carried the American flag and who also assisted in the tableaux and won applause.

Miss Mae Leslie Warren gave special readings which added to the success of the tableaux.

A reading on "The Call to Arms" was given by Mrs. W. P. Laird of Los Angeles, Cal., who is visiting in this city, to be near her son who is in the service.

Mrs. Laird is the president of the society of Organized Motherhood, this being a society of the patriotic mothers of sons in the service. Its aims are to come in personal touch with sons of the service and their mothers and families and to give mutual help and comfort in the days of the war. It aids in the dissemination of the truth concerning the war and aims to "keep the home fires burning" and a welcome for the boys when they come back and to foster the spirit of mother, love and patriotism, its mothers to do much for God, home and humanity. Our sons gave themselves as our Liberty Loan.

A social time followed the program and refreshments of ice cream and fancy wafers served.

Rev. Rollin S. Tuttle, the pastor, was untiring in his efforts to see that all enjoyed the evening and, although the night was unusually warm a large number of enlisted men accepted the hospitality of the society and the time was most pleasantly passed.

WENT TO HIS GRAVE IN A HAYRACK

Mourners Followed in Common Wagons and No Minister Officiated.

The body of Pres. Charles E. Doyling of the Nashua Socialist Club arrived at Nashua from Portland, Me., on Tuesday and the funeral was held today. The arrangements have not been completed, but will not be according to a will drawn two months ago.

The family have yet no official knowledge of its terms, which are that the body shall be conveyed to the grave in a cheap pine box, unpainted, but draped with the red flag of Socialism in a hayrack with the bourgeois on either side of it. The mourners are to follow in common wagons, and no minister is to officiate.

Doyling did not belong to the Industrial Workers of the World, although he showed his approval of their principles by having their name engraved on his gravestone.

TAKING EVERYTHING

I notice that practically every valuable item in Hampton is being taken. The houses have been taken by workers in the ship building plants at Portsmouth, and about 60 men have the town every day for work in the yards. For miles around Portsmouth county homes have been taken up by the workers and the trains leaving the city at the close of the day are crowded with mechanics discussing the ship construction development of the day.—The Prattler, in Newburyport News.

BOTTLE BROKE UNDER THE BOY'S HEAD

Peculiar Injury to Lad on State Highway.

A boy named Jones at Hampton Falls was injured in a peculiar way on the highway in that town. While walking along the road carrying an empty milk bottle he was attracted by the operation of a stone crusher at work on the state road and stopped to watch it work. Not noticing an auto which was approaching he stepped directly in front of the oncoming machine. He was thrown to the ground in such a way that the bottle he was carrying was broken under his head and he received some bad cuts. The driver of the machine took the boy in to the car and hurried to the nearest doctor where the wounds were dressed, after which he reported the accident to the police.

Margaret Margrave, the room maid which won the 2:12 racing event in the Grand Circuit meet recently and established a record of 2:06 1/4, was bred and owned until a few weeks ago by Silas Jones, a colored man of Grant County, Ind. Jones campaigned the mare three years ago and had received offers for her by horsemen, but had declined all offers until this spring when he traded her for an automobile.

THOUGHT BRIDGE WAS NOT SAFE

Trains Held Up Till Inspectors Looked It Over.

Something about the Dover Point bridge did not look good to the toll collector and station agent at Newington this morning and he reported that some of the piling was swaying on a section of the structure on the Newington side.

The Boston and Maine officials ordered the train service held up and sent foremen Bowden and Deble from the bridge crew up there to look it over. In the meantime the tide had run out and whatever danger there was appeared to have disappeared. It will probably be necessary to strengthen some of the piling but no delay is expected on account of the bridge at present. The navy yard workmen and shipyard hands were somewhat late in getting on the job on account of holding the train at Dover Point which came along later about 30 minutes behind the schedule.

WEATHER DID NOT KEEP THEM AWAY

Despite the extremely warm weather or a good number of enlisted men were present at the tent of the War Camp community service Tuesday afternoon and evening in the garden of the Portsmouth Athletic Club. The hostesses on Tuesdays are Mrs. Henry E. Hovey, Mrs. Alfred Gooding, Mrs. Arthur C. Hoffenger, Miss Helen Longdon and Miss Pauline Bradford and all saw that those present enjoyed the occasion.

SUNSET LEAGUE INTEREST ON THE WANE

There is an apparent lack of interest in the Sunset League schedule, due principally to the fact that it has developed into a struggle between the Atlantic and Shattuck teams, for these two teams are made up of such picked material that the local teams confine their organization membership or to at least the city, can not get off to afford to engage professionals.

At the same time there is no discredit that these two big yards, should want to get the best they can get, especially when it comes to contests between the two ship yards for the morale of the working force of each yard is benefited by a winning team. A suggestion has been made that out of the other four teams, two teams be picked making it a four team league, and this would renew the interest for out of the four teams two could be secured that would make it interesting for even the ship builders.

DANCERS DID NOT MIND THE HEAT

Despite the heat there was a good number of dancers at Freeman's hall on Tuesday evening when the Manager Dow offered in addition to Whittmans orchestra, three excellent female singers. All three had good voices and their singing of the popular songs played for dance music was very fine.

THE HOTTEST DAY OF THE SUMMER

Tuesday was the hottest day of the summer here in fact all over New England. The heat was all the more impressive owing to the fact that there was no air stirring during the greater part of the day. Later in the afternoon there was a little breeze worked up but it died down after sunset and the night was very warm. At one o'clock in the afternoon it was 85 in the shade and well over a hundred in the sun, making outside work difficult. Last evening it was started for the beaches but there was no great relief there. The heat wave is prevailing all over New England and it is reported to be very severe in some of the cities.

TO PLAY THE ATLANTIC

The Atlantic base ball team are to play an all star team to be managed by Home Chasen or on Saturday afternoon. Chasen realizes that to get a team that can defeat or even give the Atlantic a hard game, he must pick some of the best. This he is prepared to do and with a battery that will be well worth seeing. There will be some of the local stars and the best that can be secured for an infield.

SHATTUCK TAKE SECOND PLACE DEFEAT K. C.

SUNSET LEAGUE STANDING

By defeating the Knights of Columbus on Tuesday evening the Shattuck team took second place in the league standing, pushing the Knights down into fourth place. It was a decided one-sided game but for all of that interesting, and a much faster game than on Monday evening. The Knights could not do much with Home especially with the left edge support that was afforded him, while the Woodworkers shot holes into Driscoll's delivery. Slattery connecting for two three base hits and Meehan got a triple and a single.

Condon played a brilliant game at short although the score does not indicate, but he made two great stops, which were credited as hits. Estabrook played a fine game at short for the Knights taking ten out of eleven chances, some of them very fine. There was considerable shifting around in the Shattuck team, Brackett playing second and catch, while McKee shifted to second from first, and Meehan took a turn at first.

In the second inning the Shattuck put over five runs placing the game on ice. Meehan the first man up elevated the ball for three bases and scored on Kirstein's single. Cashman was safe on Driscoll's fumble. Condon drew a pass and Slattery hit to left field for three bases scoring Kirstein, Cashman and Condon, and Hogan fanned. Dorgan was out Estabrook to P. Bailey. Slattery scoring, McKee drew a pass, but Brackett was thrown out by J. Timmons.

They put on another in the fourth on an error by Estabrook and Dorgan's two-base hit. In the fifth they got another tally McKee getting to first on Hughes' error; stealing second and scoring on Meehan's single.

They opened up on Driscoll in the seventh, for four runs. McKee got a hit on P. Bailey's fumble, he stole second and scored on a single by L. Brackett. Meehan was retired by Estabrook. Kirstein singled, Cashman was out on a fly to Hughes and Condon singled scoring Brackett and Slattery, came in with a three base hit which scored Kirstein and Condon and Slattery for not calling at third on his way around was declared out.

The Knights got one run in the sixth on a combination of two hits and two base on balls furling over one run.

ROCHESTER

Rochester, July 24.—Ned Nemick, teacher of science at the Rochester high school, will not return this fall to his duties here, as he has been called to the colors. Miss Hazel Whigam, principal of the East Rochester school has resigned her position. Mr. Nemick was in this city Saturday.

of the Allen school, raised nearly eighteen dollars.
The Ladies' Aid of the Memorial church has just received a legacy of $500.00 from the estate of the late Maria Woodward of this city. Miss Woodward was a member of the above church and greatly interested in all its activities, she also left $100 to the Rochester public library which has already been received.

Louis P. Mitty, whose death occurred at Milton as the result of a sea-plane accident, has a brother John Leclair of this city. He was 25 years of age, and had attended the aviation school in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, being a graduate of Washington State college. He had the rank of chief quartermaster in the naval aviation service. This skull was fractured in the accident. When four years old Mitty was adopted by an uncle who had his name changed.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Frank Cady and Mrs. Emma H. Lucas both of this city, the ceremony being performed by Rev. William E. Soule at the Episcopal rectory. The groom is a lumberman and the couple will reside in Alton.

A Red Cross entertainment was given in Grange hall, Stratford Corner before a large audience. There were readings by Miss Ruth Callahan, from books sold by Robert Caverly, vocal solos by Helen Smith and pantomime, "Wanted—A Wife." The committee of arrangements included the Misses Lotie Hubbard and Esther Dow.

At the Methodist parsonage, Rev. Cyrus J. Corliss, united in marriage Oliver Webster and Mrs. Lydia Betts, both of this city. The bride wore a traveling suit and the couple were unattended. The single ring service was given. Both are employed at the Spaulding leatherboard mill, North Rochester and will reside in this place.

Frank Cady of this city was called to Milton to open a safe at the drug store of J. H. Willey, which had refused all attempts to open for a week. Mr. Cady accomplished the work in less than two hours without blowing the safe. He found one of the bolts on the door broken.

The cutting at Well Beach for poor children scheduled for Monday by the Shattuck Mark Arnold was postponed till later in the week, as automobiles were not available.

BOMBS FAILED TO EXPLODE

Boston, July 24.—Naval experts of this district today declared that bombs dropped by Chatham aircraft on the U-boat which sank three barges off Cape Cod Sunday morning failed to explode and this alone saved the enemy craft from destruction or from damage that would have made its capture easy. It is said in this connection to be a fact that the ammunition furnished to this section for naval purposes is of notoriously unreliable quality. Asked for a statement relative to this phase of the Cape Cod occurrence, Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood declined to say anything for publication. When pressed for an answer he did, however, admit that neither one of two bombs dropped near enough to the attacking U-boat to have been effective exploded, "so far as anybody knows."

"I want to correct the impression," he continued, "given currently by certain published stories that the Chatham air craft was late in getting to the scene of the attack or was not otherwise promptly 'on the job.' Such stories I know to be a misrepresentation of the facts. They were there and dropped two bombs, the explosion of either one of which might have been effective in destroying the hostile craft."

"The whole occurrence from a strategic point of view impresses me as little short of ridiculous. I gave the German Government credit for having more sense than to waste good ammunition on a couple of scows worth hardly more than the ammunition that sank them and believe the whole performance due to a desire to impress the American public with the nearness of the German operations and to excite jingoists, whom they think so numerous in this country, to renewed activities to end the war. It was more or less in the nature of a 'climax stunt' done also to impress the German people with the idea that the submarine warfare is being carried to the very shores of America and that the campaign of frightfulness is being waged relentlessly."

"Incidentally, if the German sea fighters are of the impression that this kind of four-flush tactics will terrify the American people they have still a lot to learn of the sentiment of this country. Such foolish and futile demonstrations have quite the opposite effect for they assure the people rather than terrify them."

"I do not place any credence in the rumor that one of the barges sunk was laden with copper. In the first place this Government would not have entrusted so precious a cargo to a barge for transportation at this time and under these conditions, and in the next place if one of them had been laden with any such cargo you can depend upon it that the German boat would have exhausted every possible effort to have captured instead of sunk it, for a cargo of copper would be more precious to them just now than an equal amount of gold."

Aside from saying that great vigilance will be maintained for a reappearance of the U-boat along this section of the Atlantic coast, Admiral Wood would make no statement of any plans for its capture or destruction.

IT'S A PREMATURE MONUMENT

Tall Obelisk Was Raised by the Turks to Commemorate Anticipated Capture of Kut.

Approaching Kut-el-Amara from the south by the River Tigris, the first thing one sees nowadays is a tall obelisk. It stands on ground sacred to no people in the world but the British, Eleanor Franklin Egan writes in the Saturday Evening Post. It stands on the wide, shell-toned and deeply trenched neck of land—base of the peninsula on which the town is built—where for 144 days the shattered remnant of a British army withstood a double siege of constant bombardment and slow starvation.

This obelisk was raised by the Turks to commemorate the surrender of General Townsends and their victory over the British forces that had tried so long and so heroically to relieve him. To me it was an exclamation point to punctuate my own astonishment!

I saw it first in the wonderful lights of early evening—a tall white shaft in a half-circling fringe of palm trees, lifting itself against a background of placid river, which lay in a short, straight stretch to the north, reflecting the colors of the sunset.

Was ever anything quite so premature? It makes one realize, as nothing else could, how confident the Turks and the Germans were that they had the British in Mesopotamia permanently defeated. Defeated! It seems incredible that anyone could have laughed it. In the face of things as they have become, that obelisk seems to me to express a kind of wilful blindness, as though it felt itself strangely inappropriate and would get away if it could to follow its builders on the long trail of retreat to the north. It is a monumental misapprehension, the ironic humor of it being unique and a thing in which Englishmen may now rejoice.

BRAVE SONS OF FAR WEST

Boys' Sole Object in Going to War, Like That of Others, Is to "Can the Kaiser."

Maj. E. Alexander Powell, in Scribner's Magazine, says "It has been my good fortune to have marched with many armies, but none of them has given me the thrill of pride which runs up my spine when I see these loose-limbed, brown-faced, clear-eyed sons of the far West go swaying by under the stalling lines of steel."

"They are for the most part serious looking, with a curious set expression about them which makes you feel that, though they realize the immense difficulty of the task for which they are preparing, they intend to see it finished, no matter how long it may take. Just as their fathers carried the frontier of civilization westward from the Mississippi, so these, their sons, are going to push that same frontier from the Rhine."

"But that isn't the way that they would put it. Should you ask them what they are fighting for, they will say nothing about the liberty of small peoples or about making the world safe for democracy. They will assure you that their sole object in going to war is 'to can the Kaiser.' And, upon thinking it over, it seems to me that their answer, though somewhat inelegantly phrased, perhaps, expresses the sentiments of all of us."

Uniforms Too Tight.
The army council order about the tightness and fitting of soldiers' uniforms led to expert discussion as to which force has the best, says the London Chronicle. Wounded officers with experience ranging from Bagdad to Ypres voted for the Australian.

Its shirtlike tunic with buttoned sleeves is ideally workmanlike. The Norfolk jacket-like waistband gives trimness without necessitating the wearing of a belt.

And just as unanimously expert opinion declared the U. S. A. uniform the worst.
"It's too tight—it's skin tight. Bless you, the pockets won't hold anything—they're for appearance. You couldn't cram a handkerchief in one. And I used to carry quite comfortably a pair of socks, a couple of Mills grenades, a tin of bully, chocolate, cigarettes, and my revolver in one side of my jacket."

"A thing in your pocket is worth a stone in your haversack."

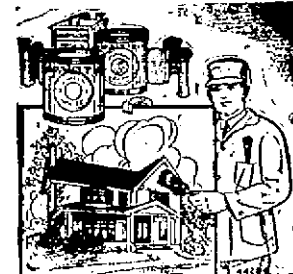

"No Lick, No Candy."
"I'm going to buy some candy with my penny," lisped a little two-year-old girl.

"I'm not," said her brother, who is not quite six years old. "I'm going to save mine and buy another Thrift stamp."

"Well, I want some candy," argued the girl.
"Aw, go ahead and buy your candy," replied her brother, "but I'm going to save mine and buy a Thrift stamp, 'cause daddy said that will help lick the Kaiser, and he says if he ain't licked there won't be any candy."

Relieved.
At Camp Dodge one night a Swede was on guard duty. Being new to the business, time dragged slowly, but finally the officer with relief came along. The Swede said: "Hi!" They halted, and next he said: "Who was that?" The officer replied: "Officer with relief." The sentry, after waiting several minutes in a vain attempt to recall to mind what he should say, brought forth this startling command: "Dismiss yourselves and be reconciled." Needless to say the silliness of the night was broken by a roar of laughter.

HAS YOUR GARDEN GOT THIS PEST?

The potato beetle is again abundant in various parts of New Hampshire. This is a small greenish or bluish sucking bug and caused considerable trouble among potato growers in the summer of 1917 in this state.

Probably the first evidence of its presence observed by the farmer will be a wilting and withering of the leaves of potato or tomato plants. An examination of the under surface of leaves that showed a large number of small, smooth, greenish, flat, transparent wings and some without any wings. With their sharp heads inserted in the tissue of the leaf they suck out the juices. The flies are found not only on the leaves but upon stalks and flower buds as well.

The pest reproduces rapidly, and if not promptly checked will soon infest every plant in the vicinity. It migrates from one plant to another more readily than any other plant lice, and so may cover a considerable area in a comparatively short time.

In destroying this pest it is best of all necessary to make certain that the standard potato sprays, such as are used for the common potato beetle or the flea beetle, namely, arsenate of lead, or Paris, are of no value for leafy insects. Those are stomach poisons, and effect only chewing insects. The potato beetle, being a sucking insect, does not take any such material into its stomach. We must use something which will kill by coming in contact with the body. A spray of this type which has given the best results in controlling the house is methion sulphate, a standard commercial form of which is known as "Black Leaf 40".

It may be purchased of any seed house. The spray should be prepared by simply adding about one-half pint of the stock solution to fifty gallons of water, to which has first been added about three pounds of hard soap or enough to make suds. In small amounts the above formula would be equivalent to two teaspoonfuls of the to which has been previously added

THE CONSERVATION OF FUEL Is a War Time Necessity. THE IWANTU COMFORT GAS IRON

PORTSMOUTH GAS CO., ALWAYS AT YOUR SERVICE.

"Black Leaf 40" is a gallon of water about an ounce of soap.

The method of application of this spray is important. It should be applied as a fine, driving mist, which is so directed as to hit the colonies of lice directly and to thoroughly drench them. In small gardens a hand or bucket pump may be used for this purpose. The operation is facilitated by the use of an angle nozzle attached to the end of an extension rod and so held as to thoroughly spray the under and upper surfaces of leaves, as well as the stems.

Thorough and careful spraying for this pest pays well. Two applications are often necessary, the second following the first when it is observed that the lice are again beginning to appear. Two sprayings with methion sulphate, applied according to the above suggestions, should pretty well eliminate the pest, and will in many cases save a crop which might otherwise be destroyed or greatly decreased in value.

"HEAD OVER HEELS"

Saturday night, July 27, all roads will lead to the Tremont Theatre, Boston, where Jay will register with laughter and song, for Miss America's favorite star of musical comedy will return at the head of the "Head Over Heels" Company to continue their season of gay summer operetta after the brief vacation of four weeks.

Henry W. Savage established a precedent in theatrical history by interrupting one of the most highly successful engagements enjoyed by a modern production and after a few weeks rest bringing it back to the same theatre to display its amazing wares of song and story again. The more than five weeks of Miss America's "Head Over Heels" at the Tremont goes for a play continuously funny with its music in Jerome Kern's famous style that lingered in the mind to whistle and hum.

Patrons for Miss America's expenditure and his care in choosing players and singers for his productions, Henry W. Savage has perhaps given more thought and time to the selection of the cast for "Head Over Heels" than for any of his organizations in recent years. His determination that the cast shall approach perfection, even to its smallest role, has brought important changes in the company and an ensemble of increased numbers in addition to Miss herself and other favorites that Boston has taken to its collective heart.

This wonderfully popular Wednesday matinee again will be given as a special feature, and the best seats again will be only one dollar. For all the other performances there are always good orchestra seats at $1.00 as well as the general seats ranging from 50 to $2.00.

The movement was given new impetus by the recent War Savings Week and now has gained regular buyers of stamps in remote sections and among people in metropolitan sections who had previously not thought of themselves as "Thrifty Stamp purchasers." Thirty-four million persons not now listed as war savers and four months remain in which to add another liberal percentage of the population to the rolls.

Women Too Ambitious

(From the New York Evening Post)

The Government has issued a timely caution about women's growing place in industry. It was "put" out through the Labor Policies Board and should be heeded by employers, women workers, and State Legislatures. Women are responsible wonderfully to the demand for their services. But, as an officer of the National Consumers' League says, there is a busy pressure furthering their inordinate occupations, and too many people feel as though there were no men over thirty-one. The Policies Board points out that it is just as mistaken to put women into mines, glass works, smelters, and quarries as it is proper to put them into clerical positions. Those of immature years should not be employed as messengers, transportation workers, bellhops, or elevator operators, and lawbreakers or state labor officials should guard against this as against their employment under conditions of physical hazard. As youngsters go to war, husbands are stepping back; men of fifty are being fired while men of forty were once pushed away. They may be given places that should be closed to women.

TO DIRECT BIG WOOD PILE

The members of the Manufacturers Association of New Hampshire are responsible for the suggestion that there be a wood pile in every city and town in New Hampshire to be utilized for the people when coal cannot be used and at a price to be fixed by the U. S. Administrator. This is a good idea and should be adopted throughout the state. The manufacturers have appointed a committee to direct this work.

STEAL NEW AUTO FROM A STATE STREET GARAGE

Thieves Quietly Get Away With 5-Passenger Car of G. B. Chadwick.

What looks like a clean steal, was made early this morning from the garage of George B. Chadwick at his residence, No. 608 State street, when thieves got away with a new 1918 five passenger Buick automobile.

A small padlock was torn off the door and the thieves worked so quietly that the people in the other half of the residence did not hear them, although other neighbors claim they heard the engine of an auto working about four o'clock.

The machine had plenty of gasoline and necessary equipment so it was an easy matter for the parties who took it to start on a journey to some other city.

The Chadwick people are summing up at the beach and no one was at the home when the auto was taken. It was not known until one of the family found the doors open this morning. The machine is insured against theft.

Netherlands, on his coming visit to this city. Chaplain Van Dyke is the noted writer and had a summer home at York Harbor for some time.

Chaplain Van Dyke will speak at the navy yard on Sunday at special services arranged by Chaplain Roundtree.

At 10:30 a. m. on Sunday he will give an address at the old hospital at the navy yard at which the Commandant and officers of the yard and their families will attend.

On Sunday evening Chaplain Van Dyke will speak at the naval prison. At this service special music will be rendered by Peter Kurtz, violinist, and vocal solos by Miss Susan Barthwick.

Chaplain Van Dyke will be the speaker on Sunday afternoon at five o'clock at the meeting for enlisted men at the Y. M. C. A. building and on Monday evening at eight o'clock at a public meeting to be held in Music Hall. Music will be furnished by the Naval Band, and Herbert Smith, district song leader, will have charge of the singing.

WILL RUN HOTELS ON COST BASIS FOR WORKMEN

Families Will Be Accommodated at Kittery Point by the Government.

The Navy Yard has received word from the Department of Labor that a representative of that Department will be here within the next few days to make complete arrangements for taking over and putting into operation the Hotel Champernowne and Pepperell at Kittery Point for the use of navy yard employees. It is, therefore, expected that these hotels will be put into active operation in the very near future, probably sometime next week.

The Navy Yard has already received a number of applications for rooms. All those desiring accommodations in these hotels should make application to Civil Engineer H. L. Hilton, U. S. N. R. E., in the office of the Public Works Superintendent, Building 81, Navy Yard. Room plans are on file in that office and reservations will be made now. Preference will, of course, be given in the order of the applications. These hotels will be run on a cost basis, without profit to the government, and every effort will be made to conduct them on a high standard and at as low a cost as possible consistent with satisfactory food and service. All employees who are being charged excessive prices at present are invited to take quarters in these hotels and give them a fair trial. It is believed that the taking of these hotels by the government should bring the cost of living to reasonable figures.

Excellent accommodations are available for men with their families and also for single women.

In order that these hotels may be a success from the start, it is important that reservations be made at an early date so that the hotels will be pretty well filled at once, which means economy in the cost of operation.

New Perfection Oil Stoves

It is nice to have a servant at one's beck and call; a cook in the kitchen, a maid in the hall. If you and I were privileged, however, to look into the kitchens of many of Portsmouth's homes tonight, the hired cooks would probably be conspicuous by their absence and, instead, we'd find members of the families attending to the culinary chores.

We'd probably find also, not the disorder and confusion that the humorists like to write about and the cartoonists dearly love to portray, but some mighty happy and contented women looking after their household affairs and proud of the privilege.

To whichever class you may belong, it is a pretty well settled fact that a Blue Flame, New Perfection stove would add—if you do not already possess such an article—much to the comfort and convenience of your housewifery duties.

Not only is the New Perfection a super-stove in convenient arrangement, but its construction makes it rank above all others. Ask the woman who has one how it saves her the worries and perplexities of the hot kitchen in summer. Let us show you the stove, cabinet, oven and the good things that go with them.
